

Michelangelo from the 1987 cartoon 'Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles' cries "Cowabunga" as he enters battle.

The Human Torch in the Marvel comics 'Fantastic Four' sometimes uses "Flame On!" while his teammate, The Thing yells "It's clobberin' time!".

COWA-BUNGA!
FLAME ON!

Frank Herbert's science fiction novel 'Dune', written in 1965 was made into a film and inspired a series of Dune video games. In the Dune Universe, the Fremen often shout the name of their messiah 'Muad'dib' or "Ya hya chauhada!" which translates to "Long live the fighters!".

In '300' the Spartans use "Haroo!" as their battle cry when Leonidas cries out "This is Sparta!" The graphic novel '300: Rise of an Empire' by Miller is a fictionalised retelling of the Battle of Thermopylae. The story was later adapted as an action film, directed by Zack Snyder in 2007.

YA MUAD CHAUHADA!
HAROO!

In Paul Verhoeven's 1997 film
'Starship Troopers' the sergeant shouts "Come on you apes! You wanna live forever?!", this is a reference to the phrase "Come on you sons of bitches! You wanna live forever?!" used by Gunnery Sergeant Dan Daly at the Battle of Belleau Wood in World War I.

YOU WANNA LIVE?
FOREVER!

One of many battle cries used in the online game 'World of Warcraft' is the nonsensical cry "Wooot!".

In the Japanese anime 'Tokyo Mew Mew', when the girl Ichigo Momomiya transforms into a Mew Mew she shouts "Mew Mew Style! Mew Mew Grace! Mew Mew Power in your face!".

Wooot!
Mew Mew Style!

In 'Redwall', a series of fantasy novels by Brian Jacques published in 1986 all species in the universe have their own war cry. The cry of the Guosim is "Logalogalogalogalog" while the Otterclans in High Rhulain shout "Eeeee ayyyyy eeeee!".

eeeee
ayyyy
eeeee!

In the 'Warcraft' game-series the Horde - usually orcs - has the battle cry "For the Horde!" or "Lok'tar ogar!". Many Horde fans are known to use this cry in the online games.

J.R.R. Tolkien's Middle Earth in 'Lord of the Rings' has many different battle cries. A traditional battle cry of the Dwarves and used by Gimli runs "Baruk Khazâd! Khazâd ai-mênu!", dwarfish for "Axes of the Dwarves! The Dwarves are upon you!". Aragorn shouts the much shorter "Elendil!" which was the first name of the High King of Gondor and Arnor.

lok'tar
ogar!
elendil!